

S
E
T
T
I
N
G

2017 Ontario Mine Rescue Competition

Redpath Safety Supervisor, Rebecca McCullough

The 2017 Ontario Mine Rescue Competition was held in the picturesque town of Goderich at the Compass Minerals Goderich Mine. Redpath's Safety Supervisor for Musselwhite Mine was a judge for this provincial event. Rebecca McCullough is one of 18 women, since 1950, to have ever participated at the Provincial Competition level either as a judge or competitor. This event was her second as a judge. She was an active member of the Rubicon Mine Rescue competition team and competed in the Red Lake District Competition in 2015. She also holds the CRSP, Canadian Registered Safety Professional, designation. Today, 25 women are active as Ontario Mine Rescue responders out of a total field of 900 volunteers across the province.

The competition included 3 scenarios; one on surface and two underground with an average time for teams to complete the entire challenge of 4 to 5 hours. Rebecca's judging station was located at the end of the faux incident, where the engine of a 62-tonne truck was on fire following a collision with a 998 Loader, which had flipped, pinning a casualty (Mr. Rescue Randy the Dummy) underneath. Judges evaluated the teams on firefighting and use of special equipment, in this case, lifting bags to help retrieve the pinned casualty out from under the loader.

The 7 provincial district champions competed over 2 days. It was very inspiring to watch the Captains, Briefing Officers and their teams make swift decisions to deal with each of the competition scenarios. Ultimately, "Team Horde" from Musselwhite Mine received top awards for firefighting, special equipment, and the overall 2017 Provincial Mine Rescue Competition Award.

At the end of the week, regardless of the competition standings, there are now a few dozen more mine rescue volunteers who are better prepared to respond to emergencies. Mine rescue is interesting to be a part of. Training is intense in order to be prepared to respond but one hopes it is never called upon.

Rebecca and her judging peers pose at the final challenge.

Using lift bags for recovery.

Participants firefighting in the competition.

Redpath Mining Zambia wins First Aid Competition at Mopani Copper Mines!

Congratulations to Redpath Mining Zambia's Dickson Kombe (Team Captain), Samson Banda, Timothy Chandalala, Timothy Shawa, Raymond Tembo and Crispus Sokoni for taking first place in the 2017 Inter-Departmental First Aid Competition, held on June 10th in Kitwe, Zambia.

Redpath Mining Zambia outperformed twelve trained first aid teams, comprised of 6 Mopani Copper Mines departmental teams and 6 mining contractor teams. This is the first time in 13 years that a mining contractor has taken first prize in the annual competition, which is hosted by Mopani Copper Mines in partnership with the Zambian Occupational Health Services and the Chamber of Mines of Zambia.

The Redpath Mining Zambia winning team, as well as the Mopani Copper Mines Nkana Concentrator team (which took 2nd place) will represent Mopani Copper Mines at the Annual Inter-Company First Aid Competition, hosted by Konkola Copper Mines on August 5th of this year in Chililabombwe.

Lifting the big first prize trophy is Team Captain, Dickson Kombe, surrounded by team members celebrating the victory and achievement for Redpath Mining Zambia.

Above Left - Back Row (L to R): Timothy Shawa, Crispus Sokoni, Patricia Ngándwe Banda (Client's Senior First Aid Training Officer), Johan Jansen (CEO, Mopani - Client), Jack Lungu (Client's Senior First Aid Training Officer), Dickson Kombe (Team Captain), Timothy Chandalala.

Front Row: (L to R) Raymond Tembo and Samson Banda.

Where in the world was... BRUCE FRASER?

Manager, Safety Training and Safety Leadership Development (and roving reporter)

Canada: North Bay

In late May, the first three of six days of the Practical Loss Control Leadership course for Canadian Operations personnel were conducted in North Bay, Ontario. The program is designed to teach supervisors where loss exists on a project, how to use their practical safety tools to reduce loss, and to provide them with the leadership skills necessary in order to help them control loss. The remaining three days of the course will be completed in September.

Red Lake Superintendent, Mike Morrow, engaging his team during the course.

Mobile Fleet Superintendent, Merv Borgford, entertaining the class by singing in Indonesian.

Named by the other competitors, "Dieter's Cheaters" won the planned inspection contest and were each awarded a new Redpath beach towel.

A Day in the Life of Redpath's USA Operations

SOFT HIT

Pogo Project, Alaska

Barrick Goldstrike Mine, Nevada

Golden Sunlight Mine, Montana

Stillwater Mine, Montana

Pogo Project, Alaska

Kensington Mine, Alaska

Barrick Goldstrike Mine, Nevada

New Raiseboring and Engineering Workshop for Redpath Mining South Africa

Say "Hello!" to Redpath South Africa's new Raiseboring and Engineering Workshop.

Mechanical Foreman, Neil Maloney will be on the job here alongside Storeman and Workshop Assistant, Saziso Mtshangase, and Workshop Assistant, Paul Gontse.

The rented space boasts a total size of 1684m² including two offices and a boardroom inside. On the outside, a change house and tearoom serve the team's needs.

The shop is equipped with a 32 ton crane, (7m under hook) and one 5 ton crane, (4m under hook).

Congratulations!

Safety - First, Last and Always.

SAFETY

Marty Gladu (R) receiving his 3 Year Safety Award from Supervisor, Dan Halvorsen, (L) at North Mine Project in Sudbury, Ontario.

Eric Violette (R) receiving his 3 Year Safety Award from Superintendent, Tyrone Dasti, (L) at KL Gold in Kirkland Lake, Ontario.

David Vendette (R) receiving his 3 Year Safety Award from Shift Boss, John Cole, (L) at Goldcorp Red Lake Mines in Ontario.

Trent Miller (R) receiving his 3 Year Safety Award from Project Manager, Garnet Klause, (L) at Musselwhite Mine in Kenora, Ontario.

Danny Boivin (L) receiving his 3 Year Safety Award from Area Manager, Gerry Ouellet, (R) at Éléonore project in Quebec.

Dave Cannard (R) receiving his 3 Year Safety Award from Shift Boss, Perry Clance, (L) at Goldcorp Red Lake Mines in Ontario.

Stephan Lavergne (R) receiving his 3 Year Safety Award from Project Manager, Garnet Klause, (L) at Musselwhite Mine in Kenora, Ontario.

Gary Anderson-Rice (R) receiving his 3 Year Safety Award from Project Manager, Garnet Klause, (L) at Musselwhite Mine in Kenora, Ontario.

Paul Fedick (R) receiving his 3 Year Safety Award from Project Manager, Garnet Klause, (L) at Musselwhite Mine in Kenora, Ontario.

Redpath Mining Africa IT Manager, Ismail Mohamed, (R) receiving his 5 Year Long Term Service Award from President & CEO George Flumerfelt (L)